In today's buyer's market, those of us trying to sell our homes have an uphill struggle; that is, until Staged Homes comes to the rescue. Like the old cavalry, they charge in, figure out possibilities, change what needs changing, and get you the most you can get for your home in the shortest possible time.

Experts Gail Meyer, Debra Dolinsky, and Shara Cohen combine their considerable expertise in such diverse fields as interior design, architecture, sales, real estate, antiques, and art, to optimize your home and show off its best features to the prospective buyer. They are uniquely positioned to combine creativity with practicality, all at your service, so that you can successfully compete in this ever-increasingly tough market.

Because "First Impressions Last"—their motto—these professionals are sensitized to how your home's value can be greatly—and valuably—increased by the right touches, either by utilizing your own furniture and accessories or by appropriate rentals. They have the contacts as well as the know-how to make the significant details effective for your benefit. They work with you to show off your home's maximum potential, whether it's via landscaping, eliminating clutter, adding "objets d'art," lighting accents, or whatever else is needed to optimize your home's salability. In addition, their helpful staff can assist in the transition to your new home with such items as: furniture delivery and setup; purchasing of linens, kitchen supplies, and home accessories; coordination of contractors, landscapers, painters, and house cleaning; supplying county information such as schools, children's activities, and transportation; and unpacking, refrigerator stocking, and closet organization...whew! Let Staged Homes help you turn a nightmare into a dream. They're waiting to hear from you to make you their latest success story. You can contact them at 732-513-2643 (Debra Dolinsky); 732-687-0698 (Gail Meyer); or 908-770-8533 (Shara Cohen).
